General knowledge contests have always been considered an integral part of enrichment for learners.

When students are armed with information for all walks of life, they will radiate confidence wherever they go.

Each and every subject at school will become an ultimate pleasure as learners will use their reminiscence talents to retrieve the knowledge they need in the right time. Knowing more about history, science, languages or any other topic broadens the horizons of humans. You become a better person by merging the realization and the apprehension of concepts together. You can actually create your own unique character formula through continuous exposure to life and cultures.

Our plan as coordinator and teachers is to carry out an integration of disciplines.

April 2018 will mark the participation of grades four and five in a spelling bee competition and a general knowledge contest for grades six, seven and eight.

The young ladies will start in class and the teachers will narrow down the number of participants to seven, out of which three will be declared final winners.

All the learners will be required to participate because we believe that challenges produce better learning outcomes.

Hoping our plan will be successful and looking forward to carrying it out.
