

What's bullying?

Bullying is defined as an aggressive behavior usually characterized by the usage of imbalanced power. Although it's a general term, bullying could extend to schools which is then called school bullying. School bullying emerges as an international issue leads to negative effects on students and could be destructive to their personalities. Bullying can occur in any part in the school, though it may occur more frequently in school's recess, hallway, gymnasium, and school busses.

Reasons behind bullying

Reasons behind this negative behavior could include:

- * Family environment; bad and unstable family environments may be transferred by students into their schools in a form of aggressive reactions.
- * Envy and resentment.
- * Boosting self-esteem by abusing others.
- * Personality disorders.
- * Anger Management troubles.

Avoiding bullying

Schools can apply several procedures which enable the administration to gain control over bullying.

- * Creating and encouraging a student friendly environment which depends on love, trust and cooperation.
- * A professional school counseling and guidance personnel who keep in contact with all students, watch their needs and observe their behavior.
- * Observing students during their recess, breaks, and while getting on busses.
- * Conducting training courses to help the teachers get enough information about bullying and ways necessary to overcome it.
